Skinny has apparently had a hard time finding six people to furnish his column that he may take a six-day vacation. He does probably require more effort than it would take to find 365 people who would be glad to contribute if he would take a year's vacation.

He has asked me to furnish the copy for today, and what a break for me. To think that after several years of accumulated insults heaped upon me, he would have the nerve to solicit a favor. Does he think I will have kindly expressions for him? If so, he is mistaken, for like the rest of the male population of Santa Ana, we believe he is and should be ignored, for how can any man attempt to usurp the rights of so many other men and still be popular with the male sex?

It is announced that a constitutional amendment will be submitted to the voters of California in 1938 providing for a one-house legislature. It seems such an amendment would be a step in the right direction. If very shortly thereafter we could again amend and do away with the remaining house, all would be well.

How many thousand people throughout the United States do you suppose are expecting to take advantage of our hospitality, the same as those who have written to a Santa Ana lady, by a sister in St. Louis:

"Dear Sister: Edd and I hope that this coming winter will be the last that we will need to lay in a coal supply, for after reading your many letters and the copy of the California Old Age Pension act, Edd and I have decided to deed the building occupied by a furniture store to Charles. The building is leased for four more years. Two of those years for $85 per month and the last two for $100 per month.

"Our other building occupied by a garage we propose to give to Mary, and while this building brings only $50 per month, yet it is growing in value more rapidly than the other so that the gifts will be about equal.

"Now here is what Edd and I plan for ourselves. Edd will be 60 in April, and I will be 60 in July next. We have nearly $4200, and if we can go out to your town and buy a little place for about $3000, Edd can do some work for the next five years, or until we both reach age 65, then with our home paid for and $35 per month for each of us we can live very comfortably and enjoy California as you have done for many years. Charles and Mary both agree with us, what do you think?"

I do not know what the sister thinks about the above plan, but I do know what many Californians think. We can take care of our own people, but cannot long take care of the thousands that will come to us without eventually the confiscation of property by taxes.

Lookie:
Who was the small man wearing a cap that was recently seen coming out of a drinking parlor (other than soft drinks) wiping his mouth, and with a satisfied expression on his face? All persons turning in the right answer will receive a life insurance policy by paying only the low 1937 rate.

A human life, no matter how insignificant, should always be preferred to a few paltry dollars. Why not prevail upon Chief Howard to appoint a special blue coat whose duty would be to help Skinny across the intersections that seem to worry him so much? (Continued on Page 2, Column 2)

Briton Shot in China War

Japanese Plane Is Blamed in Attack On English Envoy

LONDON. (AP)—The British government announced tonight it was preparing to deal "appropriately" with the Japanese government on the wounding, by Japanese fliers, of British Ambassador Sir Hugh Knatchbull-Hugessen near Shanghai. This "appropriate action" will be taken as soon as his majesty's government obtains "further information" on the grave international incident.

SHORTAGE OF WATER FACES IMPERIAL

Mexican Strike May Halt Entire Supply

BRAWLEY. (AP)—The Imperial Valley's entire water supply on both sides of the international line will be cut off, immigration officials said, if a threatened strike called for next Thursday, is carried out by the Water Workers and Distributors Union of Baja California.

Every drop of water in the valley's seven principal cities, municipal supplies, as well as that for domestic and ranch purposes in the country, comes from irrigation district canals supplied by the Colorado river. The canal system runs through Mexican territory.

The Mexico union is affiliated with the powerful C. R. O. M., similar to the A. F. of L. in the United States.

Irrigation district officials claimed the union is ignoring a two-year contract signed last September and that the strike order is contrary to Mexican law, which provides that a federal board shall hear all labor claims.

The union is asking triple pay for Sunday work. Canal riders, speaking through the union, say they are on duty 24 hours a day and want triple pay for 16 hours daily, retroactive one year. Similar demands are being made by gate tenders and ditch patrolmen. One hundred sixty men are involved.

Among the cities threatened are Brawley, El Centro, Calexico, Imperial, Holtville, Niland and Calipatria.

KING BATTLES M'NUIT PLAN

WASHINGTON. (AP)—A proposal from Senator King (D., Utah) that the 1940 Democratic presidential candidate be a man from outside the New Deal's inner circle emphasized today the fundamental split within the party.

King said the nominee should be someone like Senators Byrd of Virginia, Clark of Missouri or Bailey of North Carolina. He asserted he could not "second the nomination" by Senator Minton (D., Ind.) of Paul V. McNutt.

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Funeral services were planned today for James E. Quick, 79, who made a fortune in Northern California's Mother Lode country. Born in Ashland, Pa., he came to California as a mining engineer. He made his home in Los Angeles for the last 10 years.

SHANGHAI. (AP)—International complications of the undeclared Chinese-Japanese war increased ominously today as a Japanese warplane shot and seriously wounded the British ambassador to China and the Japanese navy threatened to include foreign shipping in its blockade of China's coasts.

Sir Hugh Knatchbull-Hugessen, the British envoy, was shot while motoring from Nanking to Shanghai. The ambassador's party was (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

AFL ACCUSED OF COERCION

Charges of intimidation and coercion on the part of members of the American Federation of Labor were hurled at a meeting of the CIO agricultural and cannery workers here last night.

A statement made by General Organizer Alfred Boelen of the CIO today following the meeting said that one worker reported he was approached by two men last week, who claimed they were influential, but did not intend to allow the workers to join any organization but the AFL.

He said the worker was told that if workers "would not follow advice of the employers to stay out of the CIO," that the AFL would send "persuasion" squads to visit workers who joined the CIO or were in sympathy with the CIO.

Boelen, who also is president of the CIO union here, branded the action as "that of unprincipled, irresponsible people, bent on the disruption of genuine labor unions, who do not represent the sentiment of the general membership of the AFL." He said it was possible they were not even representatives of the AFL, but groups who seek to "lead the workers down a blind alley into the AFL, thereby preventing building of real unions."

Boelen suggested that any worker threatened should report to the law authorities and to union officials to secure protection.

The union voted to send a letter of condemnation to Sheriff Rayburn of Riverside county, "for the attack on the aqueduct workers on strike."

Blame Dancing in $50 Wife's Death

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Blue-eyed Anahid Arefkian, bought for $50 by Junk Dealer Setrak Arefkian to become his wife, wanted to dress up in gay clothes and go dancing.

Her desire, testimony by Detective Lieut. L. G. White, indicated today, led to her death.

Rescue Squads Cleaning Up

This picture, taken a few minutes after a Chinese bomb killed 200 or more in the International Settlement Aug. 14, shows a rescue squad carrying off a mutilated body. Since then more than a thousand men, women and children have died from gunfire in the Shanghai international zone and French concession.

Girl Life Guard Heroine Today

Eighteen-year-old Barbara Shafer, Los Angeles girl, today is a heroine.

Yesterday was her first day as a member of the rescue squad at Bay Shore, and she inaugurated her start by saving the life of Betty Allen, 13, who lives in Ontario.

The Bay proved to be too strong for her. About 50 yards from shore, she went down.

Her screams for help were heard by Barbara, Barbara, fully clothed, took off her shoes, swam out and rescued the drowning girl.

After bringing the girl to the shore, Barbara applied artificial respiration until the county rescue car arrived. Dana Jamb, with the assistance of Jimmy Aodock and Forest Zeno, rendered first aid to the girl.

According to Lamb, Barbara had just completed her final examinations in life saving.

Barbara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Shafer, Los Angeles, while Betty is the daughter of Mrs. Opal Allen, Ontario.

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—This week the city council revoked a permit for staging of motion picture shows in Delhi's town hall. The action was taken on recommendation of the fire department, which had inspected the building.

Residents of the Mexican settlement got riled up when it looked as if their only gathering place was to be boarded up. They were already mad because the city hasn't fixed their streets, which they say become impassable in the rainy season.

James Holland, 726 Zeyn street, Anaheim, and Miss McKay, Placentia hotel, were killed instantly at 12:45 a. m. today when the light car in which they were riding was ground to bits beneath the wheels of an express tank car at the crossing on Crowther avenue, a half-mile west of Placentia.

OLSON BILL VOTE ORDERED

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—The referendum petition to place the Olson oil bill on the ballot at the next general election for approval or rejection was qualified with the secretary of state today. There were 128,379 signatures. Only 116,487 were necessary.

Previously the O'Donnell oil bill was qualified for a referendum by the filing of sufficient petitions.

Consequently the voters will have an opportunity to pass upon both bills, which vitally effect the tidal oil pool at Huntington Beach, reject either or both or give an affirmative vote to both.

In the latter case the one receiving the larger number of yes votes will be the one which becomes operative.

Both measures provide a method for developing the state's tidal lands oil field through leasing parcels to competitive bidders.

Weather Halts Soviet Search

COPPERMINE. N. W. T. (Canadian Press)—Sir Hubert Wilkins and his flying boat returned to Coppermine late last night after an unsuccessful search over Beaufort sea for Sigismund Levanevsky and his missing transpolar comrades.

The search party took off from Coppermine Tuesday night on its second attempt to locate Levanevsky and his five companions, missing since Aug. 13.

The fliers winged out over Beaufort sea but weather reports from Coppermine, Aklavik, N. W. T., and Anchorage, Alaska, proved unfavorable and the big ship came back to its base.

Jury Dooms Killer Of 3 Girls After Two-Day Battle

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—A jury convicted Albert Dyer, 32, today of murdering three young Inglewood girls and made no recommendation for life imprisonment. This means the death penalty for him is mandatory. The jury of seven men and five women received the case at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday, but apparently had spent most of its actual deliberation time in argument over whether to recommend life imprisonment.

Dyer was accused of slaying Melba and Madeline Everett, 9 and 7, and Jeanette Stevens, 8, in a sex frenzy last June 26 after luring them from Centinela park in Inglewood to the Baldwin hills on a supposed rabbit hunt.

He confessed the slayings in detail but later repudiated his confessions and pleaded innocent upon arraignment.

Public defenders' deputies assigned to represent him contended the state's case, without the confessions, was inadequate and that the confessions themselves were contradictory.

DYER COOL

Dyer sat motionless as the verdict of death was read. His hands were clenched and there was an almost absence of expression in his drawn face.

More than 200 perspiring spectators jammed the comparatively small court room, but there was scarcely a stir when the decision was announced.

Under a recent California law affecting capital cases, Dyer's case will be appealed automatically to the state supreme court for review.

If the conviction is sustained, Dyer will be hanged, although capital punishment has been changed in this state from hanging to death in a lethal gas chamber. The Inglewood girls, however, were slain before the new law providing the latter method became effective.

Mrs. Grace Calvert was the only juror who would give first-hand account of the jury's deliberations.

JURY AGREED

"All of us," she said, "were agreed from the first that Dyer was guilty. The only difference in our opinions was as to the degree of punishment."

The jury interrupted its consideration of the evidence twice yesterday to ask Judge Thomas White for help in its task.

Late in the afternoon it requested further instructions, and Foreman James E. Kelly submitted these questions:

"Can the penalty be decided on the mental condition of the defendant?"

"May the jury recommend life (Continued on Page 2, Column 3)

I'll Tell You

By BOB BURNS

Thrills and excitement depend a whole lot on what kind of a life you're used to living. I'll bet the people who have swum the English channel didn't get as much thrill out of it as I did when I swam across the thirty-foot swimming hole back home. And these automobile race drivers don't get as much thrill as you got the first time you actually saw back of the wheel in your own automobile and started and stopped your car yourself.

I was at a dinner down home one time given in honor of a big game hunter who had just returned from Africa and he made quite a talk explaining that his very nature craved excitement. He said his very soul fed on dangerous thrills where one false move might mean sudden death. When he finished talking, my Cousin Purdie went up to him and shook hands and says, "Brother, I know exactly how you feel. I'm one of those devil-may-care fellows, myself. Many a time when it looked like rain, I have deliberately gone out without my umbrella."

Clerk Asks $5907 For P. E. Accident

For injuries assertedly sustained when his car was struck by a Pacific Electric freight car last March 26, Leon E. Taylor, five-and-ten-cent store stock clerk, today had filed suit in superior court for $5,907.10.

Taylor named as defendants the Pacific Electric Railway company, F. L. Weston, conductor, and J. C. Cody, motorman. He charged they were negligent in permitting the crash, which occurred at 12:45 a. m. at Fourth street and Western avenue near Santa Ana.

JAPANESE IN ATTACK ON AMASSADOR

traveling in two motorcars, both flying Union Jacks.
Fifty miles from Shanghai two Japanese planes swooped down. The first sprayed the two cars with machine gun bullets. The second dropped bombs after the cars had stopped.

Lieut.-Col. W. A. Lovat-Fraser, military attaché, was knocked unconscious by a bomb explosion when he alighted from his car, but was not wounded.

SHOTS HIT TWICE

The ambassador was hit at least twice, in the left side and stomach. An official British statement said there was no doubt the planes that attacked him were Japanese.

He was rushed to the country hospital in Shanghai's International Settlement, where surgeons found a bullet had broken his back but left the spinal cord intact. They said his condition was exceedingly critical and that he might not recover.

Soon after the ambassador's arrival at the hospital he was given blood transfusions and appeared to rally somewhat.

The doctors said it was impossible to extract the bullets tonight because of the patient's weakened condition.

PLANE FLIES LOW

Sir Hugh's chauffeur said the attacking plane flew so low that the Japanese ensign on its wings was clearly visible and that the flier must have been able to see the British flags.

As soon as it was evident that the planes were chasing the automobiles the party stopped. Sir Hugh was struck as he emerged from his car, to be met with a machine gun blast.

This grave international complication was coupled with narrow escapes for three Americans, two of them during a fierce Japanese raid on the million dollar American owned Poplar Groves Dairy Farms near Shanghai.

HORRIFIED BY NEWS

Chinese and foreign diplomatic circles in Nanking received news of the affair with expressions of horror and dismay. They understood Sir Hugh was on his way to Shanghai to discuss with Shigeru Kawagoe, the Japanese ambassador, possibilities of ending the Shanghai hostilities by diplomatic agreement.

British embassy attaches said the ambassador also was anxious to survey arrangements for evacuating British nationals from Shanghai to Hongkong.

High Japanese officials were quick to express their sorrow. Matsuzo Okumura, secretary of the Japanese embassy, called on the hospital on behalf of the ambassador, Shigeru Kawagoe; Vice Admiral Tadao Honda, naval attaché of the embassy, called to express the navy's regrets.

Messages of condolence also came from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, head of the Chinese government, and other Chinese officials.

JAPANESE SORRY

A spokesman for the Japanese embassy deplored the attack on Sir Hugh and said the airplane evidently had mistaken the red and blue British flag on his automobile for a Chinese emblem of the same colors.

On the battlefronts around Shanghai, Chinese defenders meanwhile had fallen back to a broad front, while the Japanese army had established a firm foothold on the Yangtze coast north of Shanghai for the landing of divisions from the homeland for extended operations to drive the Chinese from the vicinity of Shanghai. A spokesman for the Japanese navy declared that "foreign shipping along the China coast may be halted by Japanese warships patrolling the area."

This would be an extension of the blockade against Chinese shipping proclaimed yesterday along 800 miles of China's coastline, from Shanghai southward.

CHINESE GAIN
In the northern campaigns for control of Hopeh province the fortunes of war varied. Japanese headquarters in Tientsin claimed a series of smashing successes, including capture of Kalgan, capital of Chahar province, and other important positions in that region.

Japanese officers in Peiping, however, admitted that Chinese armies southwest of Peiping were carrying out a flanking movement that endangered the Japanese column fighting along the Peiping-Hankow railway.

In Tokyo Premier Fumimaro Konoye declared Japan considered British and American efforts to halt the fighting in the Shanghai area as of little importance.

J. B. Powell, Chicago Tribune correspondent on the war front, was jolted but uninjured when huge Japanese shell splinters smashed into his automobile, which was flying the American flag.

J. H. McKinnon of Houston, Tex., manager of the large American-owned poplar groves dairy farms, on the outskirts of Shanghai, saved his life by feigning death under a hail of Japanese aerial bombs and machine gun fire.

ATTACK DAIRY

A squadron of Japanese warplanes attacked the farms for the second time within a week, almost annihilating the dairy's herd of 400 pedigreed American cattle.

Fleeing the bombing, McKinnon leaped into an enormous crater left from the first Japanese air raid. He lay motionless as though dead until the Japanese planes, which had dived to less than 500 feet above him, flew off.

McKinnon protested to American consular authorities against the repeated Japanese bombardments.

Although possessing woefully inadequate resources, international relief committees plunged into

(When I was out Guy was in, and when Guy was in I was out. Therefore a heart to heart conversation over what he says and what I am accused of must remain a matter of conjecture. However, my attorney told me not to talk. He said I would only make matters worse, and I was plenty of trouble to him "as is." His comment re: California's generosity toward the old age pension system will at least be interesting and disturbing to property owners. He might have headed his contribution: "California, Here We Come." The system evolved by "Dear Sister" is a clever arrangement to put relatives on Easy street, and Californians on Uneasy street. How to live at some one else's expense is being given more thought these days than how to get a job so you can sustain yourself. Oh, well, Guy, you and I should worry. The "paid in full" man will call on the beneficiary one of these days and our troubles will be over—or just started.—Skinny.)

the overwhelming problem of alleviating, even slightly, the dangers of hunger and disease hovering over war-torn Shanghai. There are at least half a million destitute war refugees roaming its streets, among them a sprinkling of foreigners.

RUSH RELIEF WORK
Under the direction of American W. H. Plant of Portland, Me., the emergency relief committee broadcast a world wide appeal for the war victims here and elsewhere in China.

The most acute problem is to save the lives of these 500,000 utterly dependent refugees, stranded hungry, homeless and penniless.

Sanitation is virtually non-existent and food is meager, creating an increasing danger of epidemics. Food rations, costing about 2 cents a day for each person, are a bowl of rice and cabbage gruel with an occasional trace of meat.

So far the only contributions have been about $100,000 and two truckloads of cabbage from the Japanese consul general, Suemasa Okamoto.

The Chinese, although on the verge of starvation, refused to touch the cabbage when they learned its source.

Chinese were holding their positions all the way from Chapei in Northern Shanghai to the Yangtze river, 12 miles to the north. An official Japanese spokesman admitted the Japanese army "was experiencing some opposition" in its advance on Shanghai.

Japanese claims of yesterday that the Chinese were retreating on all parts of the front and were on the verge of wholesale withdrawals all the way from Chapei to the Yangtze were not borne out by foreign observers.

United States marines, guarding the international settlement border, reported Chinese positions in Chapei were unchanged.

PLANE CRASH VICTIMS ARE BURIED

Youthful victims of a fatal airplane crash near Paulirino Monday morning, Harold Willis and Ardell Sawyer were laid to rest yesterday with impressive rites, augmented by the presence of an aerial escort.

Fellow members of the Eddie Martin Pilots association who piloted the cortege were Joe Hager, Calvin Lambert, Johnny Martin, Chet Gridley and Roy Harris. The planes escorted the funeral procession then circled Fairhaven cemetery during the interment services.

Funeral services for Harold Willis, 22, were conducted at the Brown and Wagner chapel by the Rev. W. S. Buchanan, pastor of the First Christian church, and the Rev. J. Hastie Odgers, pastor of the Richland Avenue Church. Musical selections, "Rock of Ages" and "In the Garden" were sung by Nelson Rogers, a school friend of Willis.

Palbearers were also his school friends. They included Ray Hiett, Allan Ritter, Roland Williams, Carl Allison, M. C. Hall, and Nelson Rogers.

Rites for Ardell Sawyer, 16, were held at Winbiger's with Dwight Kenyon of Jehovah's witnesses officiating. Palbearers were Dick Kendall, Boyce Edwards, Simon Caudey, Jack Parton, Bill Waddell and Billy Heil.

An inquest into the crash was being conducted this afternoon in the Brown and Wagner mortuary by Coroner Earl Abbey.

TO START WPA JOBS SEPT. 1

Two new Works Progress Administration projects, with a total cost of nearly $19,000, will be started on Sept. 1, it was announced today by Dan Mulherson, chief of the construction division for Orange county.

One of the projects is for construction of the Newport Heights reservoir at a cost of $4114 to the government and $5089 to the sponsor. It will employ 63 men.

The other project is for building the Cerro Peak telephone line at a cost of $7056 to the government and $2507 to the sponsor, which is the state forestry department. The job will take 38 men.

At the same time Mulherson announced that three WPA projects will be completed at the close of this month. These are the La Habra Washington school job, the Yorba Linda telephone line for the state forestry department and construction work on the Costa Mesa school.

Baby to Be Born Outside of Jail

LOS ANGELES. (P)—Mrs. John Taft, 35, under sentence of one to 14 years in the women's prison at Tehachapi for forgery, will give birth to her baby outside prison walls.

After her sentence by the late Judge William Tell Aggeler she disclosed she was an expectant mother. Judge Aggeler ordered a stay of execution and a probation hearing.

Judge Charles W. Frickie, in granting the woman 10 years probation, said he felt he was carrying out Judge Aggeler's wishes. The first 18 months of her probation must be served in jail, but she will be allowed to leave the county jail for a hospital when the baby is born.

MRS. SHEPPARD TO BE HONORED

Women of northern and southern Orange county united today in plans for a reception and tea to be given in honor of Mrs. Harry R. Sheppard, wife of Congressman Sheppard.

The reception will be held in Santa Ana and the date has been set tentatively for Sept. 21. Mrs. Claudia Worswick and Miss Robbie Anderson were appointed today as chairmen for southern and northern Orange county, respectively. The appointments were made by B. Z. McKinney, chairman of the Orange County Democratic Central committee.

McKinney authorized the two women to name their own committees and to communicate with Mrs. Sheppard regarding her availability on the date selected and to make other arrangements with her if another date is more suitable.

Children of Fireman Found

LOS ANGELES. (P)—Two girls and a boy who were missing 24 hours, were found yesterday at Redondo Beach. The children, ranging in ages between 9 and 12, are those of Andrew Smith of the Los Angeles fire department. They said picnickers on the beach gave them food and they curled up in a borrowed blanket Tuesday night.

INSURGENTS TAKE OVER SANTANDER

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Border. (P)—Insurgent columns rode proudly into Santander today in formal occupation of the government's last important city on the northwest Spanish coastal ledge.

The city was hung with the red and gold flags of Spain's insurgency. The streets were jammed with cheering Santanderese.

Formal occupation came at 11:45 a. m.

Detachments numbering several thousand already had penetrated the city to quell vengeful terrorists.

Insurgent sources estimated that about half of the Spanish government's defeated army of some 50,000 was caught in a 15-mile-square trap in the rolling country southeast of Santander, still unaware that "the city of perpetual spring" had capitulated.

POPE TO RECOGNIZE SPAIN INSURGENTS
VATICAN CITY. (P)—The Holy See will concede "de facto recognition" tomorrow to the Spanish insurgents.

Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, is scheduled then to accept the credentials of Pablo de Churruarín, Marquis of Ayacucho, as the Spanish insurgents' charge d'affaires.

The marquis has had the credentials with him since his arrival in Italy last June. He established his first contact with Cardinal Pacelli in early July.

COUPLE FIGHTS ACCIDENT SUIT

Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Fly of Los Angeles fired questions at witnesses and objections at Superior Judge G. K. Scovel today as they defended themselves against a $5000 auto accident damage suit.

Arvonne Cox, 2-year-old South Laguna girl, is plaintiff in the suit, filed through her father, Harland G. Cox, who also asks $435 for medical expenses.

Robert J. Hamilton, deputy probation officer for Los Angeles county, was the principal witness for the plaintiffs today, but testified under cross-examination by the Flys that he had told a police officer that Mrs. Fly, driver of the car, was not at fault.

The girl incurred a broken left leg and skull fracture last Jan. 23 when she was struck by Mrs. Fly's auto.

Law Powerless on Beach Walkathon

Walkathons are officially frowned on in Orange county, but law enforcement officials were powerless today to do anything about one which was scheduled to get under way this afternoon in Seal Beach.

The show, reportedly licensed by the city of Seal Beach for a $500 fee, is inside the city limits. A county ordinance prohibiting such shows is effective only in the unincorporated area, and there is no state law prohibiting the shows.

P. E. STRIKE AUTHORITY IS RECEIVED

Workers Vote 1584-71
On Walkout Plan

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Authorization for the walkout of nearly 2000 employees of the Pacific Electric railway, which would paralyze interurban traffic throughout Southern California, was received today by D. A. McKenzie, secretary of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, from Cleveland headquarters.

Failure of negotiations between the trainmen and the management, which have extended nearly a year, led to a strike vote yesterday in which the workers balloted 1584 to 71 for a strike if their demands were not met. It was explained also that the company could appeal to the national mediation board to intervene in the strike, as it did in 1934. The board then could call upon the President to name a fact-finding commission to investigate the controversy.

The union nearly a year ago demanded 80 cents an hour for conductors and motormen, with higher rates for operators of one-man cars and motor coaches. The company proposed that they be paid 62½ cents, as against 56½ cents paid at present.

FDR SIGNS DEFICIENCY LEGISLATION

WASHINGTON. (AP)—President Roosevelt signed today the measure to close loopholes in the income tax law.

The measure also authorizes the use of $65,000,000 of tariff receipts for subsidies to cotton farmers in connection with a government effort to stabilize the price at 12 cents a pound.

These subsidies, to be paid next year on this year's crop to farmers who comply with surplus control legislation to be enacted next session, will be equivalent to the difference between the average price at 10 spot markets and 12 cents.

The President has not decided how much the government will lend on this year's crop to help in the price pegging effort. He has been requested by Secretary Wallace to make the loan nine cents a pound while cotton state senators have urged 10 cents.

The largest item in the deficiency bill as far as new appropriations are concerned, is $25,000,000 for construction of public buildings. The bill also carries $10,000,000 to start the farm tenancy aid program and another $10,000,000 for retirement of sub-marginal lands.

It was one of 58 bills which the President approved, leaving 81 yet to be acted upon. He announced along with the bill approvals three minor pocket vetoes.

CRASHES TAKE FOUR LIVES

struck the next to last car on the train. The automobile went completely under the tank, and was carried a quarter of a mile down the tracks before the freight train came to a stop.

Nothing was left of the car, a 1937 model. It had been entangled under the heavy tanker, derailed the trucks on the car. According to Highway Patrolman Ernie Sawyer, not enough was left of the car to be salvaged.

IMPACT HURLS BODIES
The body of the girl was found 900 feet from the crossing on the south side of the right-of-way. Holland's broken body was found a thousand feet from the crossing, about 100 yards from the body of the girl. Every bone in their bodies were broken, reports said.

According to investigations conducted by Coroner Earl Abbey, skid marks revealed that the car was traveling north on Crowther avenue. The terrific impact which snuffed out the young people's lives ended a 60-yard skid, Abbey said.

Indications showed that the driver, but fog in early morning, moderate west wind.

HOLLAND PROMINENT
Young Holland is said to have been prominent in college affairs. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Holland, 726 Zeyn street, Anaheim, and one sister, Mrs. C. S. Rounds, Coronado.

Inquest into their deaths will be held Saturday at 10 a. m. in the Backs, Terry, and Campbell Funeral home in Anaheim where the bodies were taken.

Roberta Maldonado, 10 months old, was killed almost instantly early this morning at her home, Route 1, Box 67, Prospect avenue, Yorba Linda, when she crawled on the driveway and was run over by a car driven by her aunt, Beatrice Valenzuela.

The two right wheels of the car ran over the tiny child after it had crawled from underneath a big tree where her mother had placed it to play.

The body was taken to the McAdams and Suter's Funeral home in Fullerton where an inquest is pending. The girl is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maldonado.

Injuries sustained when he was struck by a car when he was walking across the street at Manchester boulevard and Grand street in Buena Park Saturday night claimed the life of James Gross, 40. He lived at 409 Fourth street, Buena Park.

TAX LOOPHOLE LAW SIGNED BY FDR

WASHINGTON. (AP)—President Roosevelt signed today the measure to close loopholes in the income tax law.

The measure, requested by the President to curb what he termed tax evasion and avoidance, is expected by experts to increase tax revenues by from $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 a year.

The White House made public a letter from Acting Secretary Taylor of the treasury saying his department was "happy to recommend prompt approval of this bill which will operate to close a number of serious loopholes in the revenue laws through which large amounts of revenue have been lost and still larger amounts would have escaped in the future."

BOYS DISCOVER MAN'S BODY

Coroner Earl Abbey and sheriff's officers today were attempting to identify a man believed by officials to have committed suicide at Patterson island, Balboa, sometime yesterday.

The body of a man, his left wrist slashed many times with a razor blade, was found yesterday afternoon by two small boys, Martin Goldberg, 11, and Alex Steinberg, 14, Los Angeles, discovered the body while playing at the rear of the islet.

According to Abbey, the man evidently had gone behind the knoll and slashed his left wrist to shreds. The body was taken to the Dixon funeral home in Costa Mesa, where officials are awaiting identification.

The man is described as being five feet nine inches tall, slender built with brown curly hair streaked with gray, and no upper teeth. He was wearing gray checked pants, a blue sweater jacket and a new pair of black shoes.

Another Turtle Mystery Baffles Orange Cops

The mystery of the trappings turtle is baffling Orange police again. Only this time it's two turtles instead of one.

C. J. Nichols, who operates a service station at Chapman and Batavia streets, found a wandering turtle last night. He called

"Heh," said policemen, "Officer Wolfe's pet is wandering again." They were remembering the turtle mystery of a few weeks ago when Wolfe identified a marauding turtle as his Oscar because of the expression in its face.

So they advanced upon the Wolfe menagerie and grimly accused the popular policeman of letting his charge stray again. Wolfe had a perfect alibi. Oscar was at home, calmly munching whatever turtles munch when hungry. Now police are hunting for the owner of the latest stray. If no one shows up to claim it, Nichols is going to keep the critter for his children. But the policemen are getting awfully tired of turtles.

NEW P. O. FOR LAGUNA IS REQUESTED

Chamber Opens War For Federal Aid

LAGUNA BEACH.—Following action taken at the noon luncheon meeting Tuesday, the chamber of commerce telegraphed Henry Morgenstern, Jr., secretary of the treasury, stressing a need for adequate postoffice facilities in this city.

"This community has outgrown present postoffice facilities," the wire read. "Needs can only be met by construction of a federal building. Cooperation from property owners can be secured if commitments can be given with reference to the $80,000 allotment for federal buildings in this congressional district."

The chamber urged further that government officials be sent to Laguna Beach to investigate the situation. A copy of the wire was sent to Postmaster James A. Farley.

A resolution to the city council requesting an "efficient and effective" police patrol in the Arch Beach district also was passed at the meeting. The resolution was referred to Police Commissioner Charles Jester last night at the council meeting.

The chamber of commerce will soon sponsor a conference of local apartment house owners to discuss year 'round stabilization of rentals, it was learned at a special evening session Tuesday night in the chamber building. Martin Elliott, apartment house manager, was delegated by Capt. George A. Portus, secretary, to contact others in the business and notify them of the conference.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK. (AP)—Fears of international complications as the result of the shooting of the British ambassador to China near Shanghai touched off a selling wave in the stock market today that swept leading issues down 1 to 5 points.

In addition to the wounding of the diplomat, Wall Street's pessimism was further aggravated by Japanese threats to include neutral shipping in the blockade of the China coast, the breakdown of railway wage negotiations and a clouding outlook for a brisk pickup in business this fall.

At the peak of the downswing in the second hour the ticker tape fell a minute or so behind floor dealings for the first time in many weeks. The pace slowed later, however, and extreme losses were cut down moderately in most cases before the close.

Stations and rails led the retreat, but all departments were affected. Prices follow:

New York Stocks

NEW YORK. (AP)—Fears of international complications as the result of the shooting of the British ambassador to China near Shanghai touched off a selling wave in the stock market today that swept leading issues down 1 to 5 points.

In addition to the wounding of the diplomat, Wall Street's pessimism was further aggravated by Japanese threats to include neutral shipping in the blockade of the China coast, the breakdown of railway wage negotiations and a clouding outlook for a brisk pickup in business this fall.

At the peak of the downswing in the second hour the ticker tape fell a minute or so behind floor dealings for the first time in many weeks. The pace slowed later, however, and extreme losses were cut down moderately in most cases before the close.

Stations and rails led the retreat, but all departments were affected. Prices follow:

Beet Harvester to Be Tested Again

The sugar beet harvester, tried successfully in California and Colorado last year by the University of California college of agriculture and the United States department of agriculture, will be given further tests this fall in Yolo county and the delta district beet fields. The tests will be under the supervision of Roy Bainer, assistant professor of agricultural engineering at the Davis campus, and W. McBurney, of the United States department of agriculture bureau of plant industry.

With his harvester, it is possible to pull the beets, top them, and deliver them to the trucks, taking two acres at a time. Mechanically, the harvester proved almost an entire success last year, and with improvements that have been added, it is believed it will meet all requirements this year. Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg said. What the machine would be economically profitable to use, has not been demonstrated, and a strict record of costs will be kept this year to obtain data on this end of the performance.

YOUR PERSONALITY

WELL-GROOMED, smartly turned out — costume from Vogue, but manner from Potunk — how often we see an illusion of beauty destroyed by self-conscious mannerisms, lack of poise resulting from uncertainty of oneself.

Financial returns, as well as friends depend upon our personality — our self-assurance. How important, then to develop that asset! The Orange County Business School, under the direction of Dr. E. H. Smith, emphasizes personality development. The training given by Dr. Smith is unique — and has scores of successful graduates from coast to coast to witness its effectiveness.

Dr. Smith takes individuals as they are, trains them to success in their own chosen line. During the past few weeks, Dr. Smith has had interviews concerning this phase of the work with Junior College and State University graduates.

After seeing the samples of this new Wilton triumph, I sought out Mr. C. William Hippard, Decorator for IRA CHANDLER & SON at Third and Main streets, to get the "story" on them. He told me of the six years of laboratory experiment and perfecting, before the manufacturers were satisfied of the exclusive weaving and washing processes, which I shan't attempt to re-explain.

He pointed out that the new patterns are the answer to the demand for a self-patterned and self-toned carpet, giving the effect of a plain background that is yet foot-print proof — even more proof than the recently popular Frieze Broadloom. It is interesting to note that the wool in the carpet is of the same dye, the pattern achieved by difference in the twist of the yarn.

And such patterns! Designed to harmonize with both modern and traditional furnishings, effecting, thereby, economy as well as beauty. The distinguished Regency Pattern of the Prince of Wales Plume is particularly good in any Eighteenth Century setting. The Oakleaf pattern in Horizon Blue was recently chosen for Vice-President Garner's new home. In a tantalizing Champagne color, there is an all-over palmleaf design that can only be described as lovely.

Plain, unpatterned colors may, of course, be had. Because Wilton Broadloom carpets are custom made — for your particular room and color scheme. The newest colors are in medium and pastel tones to meet the high-key decorating scheme of today, but any color may be had on special order. CHANDLER'S, 3rd and Main.

FASHION CHATTER

"Put down six and carry two."

Next Wednesday is Sept. 1! Had you realized it? We hadn't—until we started on our shop-snooping rounds this week. Everything is in readiness for the annual September exodus—back to school! It's a gay time—despite loud groans anent the end of vacation... Moans which all knowledge-seekers between the ages of five and twenty-two feel duty-bound to hurl upon the air, but never mean... How could they, with the chance of a 1937 school wardrobe?

We were among the back-to-college regiment for four years, served as college fashion adviser in one of Manhattan's College Shops a year after that... and positively, we've never seen such collegiate creations! Plaids... magnificently Scotch... Suede trims and splendid buckles boosting knit-wear into a new spotlight—rivals at last for the traditional Brooks... Camel's hair coats that are completely new... Everything with a different twist, gay, joyous, nonchalant...

We've had a lot of questions lately as to just what are the real essentials of a college wardrobe... It's such a temptation to stock up on luscious looking moth-collectors and overlook the really important items... In response to that request, we've made four short lists pertaining to the needs, and the delights of a college woman—the first, Wardrobe Essentials, we've included this week... Watch next Thursday's Fashionettes for the second and third.

COLLEGE WARDROBE ESSENTIALS

Skirts and sweaters—the college girl's standby. You can't have too many, but one good, conservative skirt and two or three sweaters will "get you by."

Blouses—to change off with sweaters. If your budget's limited, a couple of cool ones, one of which can be laundered.

One Cardigan, at least, or a sleeveless jerkin—for coolish days. In a neutral shade that will blend with all sweaters and blouses.

One or more bandannas—they're such versatile things, and always in demand.

Incidental jacket—one will do. Plaids are tops. For colder climates, suede or leather.

Sport or campus coat... Camel's hair or tweed—a good one will see service through four years of the roughest wear.

Light weight wool or jersey dress, for town wear... An ensemble, with matching coat or jacket is ideal, for town, week-ends and change for dinner.

Dress coat. Silk or crepe dress—for dinner and Sunday.

Tea gown—evening dress with long-sleeved jacket ideal.

Formal—one strictly formal with the above jacket gown will see you through, unless you're especially gay.

Shoes—stout walking oxfords absolutely. One pair of dress shoes. One evening sandals.

Warm bathrobe that won't muss—Fancy negligees out.

GARDENERS, ATTENTION!

DOES your yard look like a man who forgot to shave this week? I know—straggling hedges... And such a job... Have the SANTA ANA NURSERY put them in shape with their electric trimmer. They'll do it either by the foot or by the hour... Phone 5021.

GOING ON A STEAK BAKE?

IT'S the thing to do—but definitely... Everybody's steak-baking, and coming in next morning with mouth-watering tales... Makes you ravenous to think about it... It's warm on the beaches these evenings—ripe for moonlight bathing, topped off with a fire to dry by—and a sizzling steak, buttered and juicy! And everybody in the know are getting their steaks at the TOP MEAT SHOP at 210 N. Broadway... And you may be sure we lost no time in finding out why. Here's what our steak-snooping jaunt found out: Top Meat steaks come from locally, and specially, fed beef—that saves the rough and tough of shipment... Their T-Bones and Sirloins are famous among Santa Ana hostesses... And they specialize in individual steaks for steak bakes.

DISCOVERY OF THE WEEK

A THREE-PIECE suit—the kind you'd pick for a touseau... Navy, with a cross fox collar—a blue and brown combination whose daring spells smartness... The hip-length jacket fits like the proverbial glove, belted with buttons all the way up to a high, collarless neckline... Top coat in new swaggar line... SCOUTER'S, 312 N. Sycamore.

CREAM PUFFS!

FRESH every day—in a less than a minute, poets would write sonnets about them... And cinnamon buns that ooze spicy goodness to set the morning right, with a steaming cup of java... Drop cookies for the children, with milk or fruit—mable nut and date nut, especially. EATON'S, Grand Central Market.

Pigeon-racing, "The Sport of Wings," will be promoted on a much larger scale in Orange county this season.

Of the 12,000 homing-pigeon owners in the United States, 40 live in and around Santa Ana, and have begun to groom approximately 2000 of their feathered friends for races opening Sept. 26.

Gus Callens, the Greenville rancher, boasts the only pigeon ever to fly 500 miles (non-stop) hereabouts, but the Orange County Pigeon club owns numerous birds capable of averaging 50 to 55 miles per hour.

The Orange county pigeons annually fly one of the most difficult courses on the Pacific coast. It starts at Red Bluff, and continues down through Sacramento, Modesto, Merced, Fresno, Tulare, Delano, Bakersfield and Santa Ana. Five hundred and fifty miles in all!

The birds battle the heat and cold in soaring to various altitudes en route home, and while the majority reach their destination, many are grounded by hunters who thoughtlessly send a bullet through their breasts.

Even if they escape the hunters, the pigeons must be on constant guard against attacks by hawks. Others are lost when they run into wires while flying low, or when they become thirsty and land in small puddles of oil, thinking it is water.

The homing pigeon is a faithful bird. It will return to its master's loft if it possibly can. One pigeon, held prisoner for SIX years, was freed, and promptly flew home. Another, its wings battered so much it couldn't fly, walked miles to the home loft.

Pigeons raced by the Orange County club, which is a member of the American Pigeon Racing association, are the same type as the messenger-carriers used by the army.

John Cleary, well-known Santa Ana, is racing secretary of the Orange County club. It is his duty to keep accurate times on all the pigeons and make reports to the club president, John Jacobs of Tustin. Ray De Brower of Tustin is the vice president; Fritz Gooseness of Anaheim, the secretary-treasurer.

Pigeons usually show their best speed over the 200 and 300-mile routes, and will be raced from Delano, Tulare and Fresno in the first series Sept. 26. The birds are now in training.

The owner must be patient in grooming his racers. . . . Fourteen weeks old, they are capable of flying 100 miles with safety. . . . The owner usually takes them out 10 or 15 miles the first day, then doubles the distance each day until the pigeons know their way home over a 500-mile course. . . . The pigeons are shipped by express to the starting point of the race. Each is banded with a number before being released at daylight. . . . Upon reaching its home loft, the pigeon's number is placed in a capsule and inserted into a clock, which records the exact time of arrival. The racing secretary then compares the times, and a committee awards trophies and certificates to the winning owners.

Races are conducted on successive week-ends from Sept. 26 to Oct. 24.

It's a fascinating sport, participated in by young as well as old. There is a 13-year-old boy in the Orange County club, and another member past the 70-year mark. . . . They own pigeons ranging in age from one to 16 years. It is interesting to know that a pigeon's best racing days are over when it reaches the age of five. Many, however, are raced long after that.

There are 2,000,000 racing pigeons in the United States. What other sport can claim as many contestants?

History Repeats in Western Women's Golf at St. Paul

ST. PAUL. (AP)—History is being repeated in the 37th annual women's golf tournament which today enters the quarter-finals round.

All four semi-finalists of last year's tournament at South Bend, Ind., remained in the fight for the title defended by Dorothy Traugott of San Francisco.

They are Miss Traugott, Beatrice Barrett of Minneapolis, whom the San Francisco girl defeated 6 and 5 in the 36-hole final last year; Patty Berg of Minneapolis, and Marion Milley of Cincinnati, Ohio.

POSTPONEMENT MAY BOOM INTEREST IN TITLE FIGHT; JOE OUTWEIGHED 9 POUNDS

Heavyweight Principals Entrain for Training Camps for Light Workouts

NEW YORK. (AP)—The heavyweight championship fight between Joe Louis and Tommy Farr, scheduled for tonight, was postponed until Monday night because of rain.

The four-day postponement was announced by Promoter Mike Jacobs, shortly after the rival fighters weighed in, at the offices of the state athletic commission.

The Welsh challenger had a nine-pound advantage on the scales, weighing 207 to 198 for Louis.

Because of the length of the postponement, the fighters will be obliged to go through the official weighing-in and examination ceremony again on Monday. A drizzling rain, with no signs of letup by tonight or encouraging reports as to tomorrow's weather, prompted Jacobs to defer the title match.

Another factor, presumably, was that the advance ticket sale has been disappointing. The promoter hoped that the additional time would develop sufficient interest to make the bout a financial success.

They stripped within a few feet of each other, without exchanging a word. As Louis stepped off the scales, he stuck out his hand and said to the challenger: "How are you?" Farr replied: "Very good." That was the extent of their conversation.

Both fighters decided to return to their camps, Farr to Long Branch, N. J., and Louis to Pompton Lakes, N. J., for light workouts.

The postponement was the second in as many years for Louis in a major engagement. His memorable bout with Max Schmeling, just a year ago, was deferred one night because of rain.

Promoter Jacobs predicted the longer delay would be a box office boon. He pointed out that the Saratoga race meeting, which ends Saturday, would bring potential cash customers back to town. The boxing commission changed its mind and decided to go through with the formalities of medical examination of Louis and Farr, after first indicating it would defer this until Monday.

The betting has been around 3 to 1 for the last couple of days that Louis, the youngest heavyweight champion ever, will win his first title defense by a knockout.

Nobody has paid much attention to the pledge of eye-witnesses that Farr isn't anywhere near the hamdome he has looked in training.

They don't much care how good he might be, to tell the truth. Those who worship at the shrine of Joe Louis' punch don't much care about anything. So far as can be discerned with the naked eye, they've forgotten completely what Max Schmeling did to Joe.

"Anybody Louis hits," they say, "he knocks his block off. Farr can be hit, can't he? Well. . . ."

That is about the extent of the experting that has been done on Monday's bout, which should gross a gate of about $250,000 and attract some 30,000 customers.

Whole front rows of veteran fight men have watched the Welshman work out and have come away mystified. They concede him a good left, a world of rugged endurance and an aggressive disposition, to say the least. But he has looked wide open for a right, and maybe a left, and he hasn't looked like an individual who would try to play hide-and-seek with Louis like Bob Pastor did, even if he knew how.

"Sure as he comes in at Joe, he'll get knocked out," said Jack Johnson, the only previous negro champion. "Joe still hasn't learned much. A boy who boxes with him and stays away will beat him every time. But this English boy had better watch himself."

Lil' Arthur's remarks seemed to sum up the advice the ex-champion had for Tommy. Dempsey, Braddock and Baer said the same thing, and they haven't had any thanks from Farr yet. Max Schmeling, who will be at the ring-side, was plain disgusted. He saw Farr knock out Walter Neusel in London—the fight that got Tommy Monday's title shot—and he still thinks the Welshman is a second-rater.

DETTON TOSSES KIMAN KUDO

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Kiman Kudo's jujitsu technique collapsed last night under the pile driving slams of Dean Detton, former Salt Lake wrestling champion.

Losing the first fall because he ripped off his Japanese mat jacket, 210-pound Detton threw 170-pound Kudo so hard for the second fall that the little brown man was physically unable to continue.

Gino Garibaldi, 230, Brooklyn, finished off Nick Lutze, 205, Los Angeles, in two straight falls in another Olympic auditorium feature.

Karl Young Drives Midget After 'Flu'

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—Champion Karl Young, recovered from the "flu," will drive one of the 12 mighty midgets tonight in the 75-lap feature at Gilmore speedway. It is the second longest night racing event of the season thus far.

Light Bulbs Burst As White Bugs Swarm Ball Field

LEWISTON, Idaho. (AP)—Swarms of moth-millers here may force removal of remaining Western International league baseball games to another city.

The white-winged bugs the last two nights have caused eight high-powered light globes to explode.

It was explained the moisture from the bugs' bodies, coming in contact with the hot globes, caused the explosions.

The scourge of millers cast freak shadows over the field, and the bursting bulbs caused fielders to commit errors.

GIANTS DRUB CUBS TWICE

The Cubs met the enemy—and couldn't get away from them.

Even if they'd been in the next county, it's doubtful if those Chicago clouters could have gotten the Giants out of their half yesterday as they blew both ends of their double-header with the second-place New Yorkers. They kicked away a five-run lead in the opener, and a one-run edge in the nightcap, which shaved their National league lead to a mere two games.

As a result, the National league race seemed headed today for a photo finish, with enough rough riding to make it look like a rodeo, and with the Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis' reviving Cardinals.

DOUBLE BILL WILL CLEAR BALL MUDDLE

Shaughnessy Playoff Series to Open at S. B. Diamond Monday

Anaheim's Valencia's will assume an "iron man" role by playing both San Bernardino and Santa Ana in a doubleheader that will clear up the National Nightball league's playoff muddle inside the Municipal bowl tomorrow night.

The plan, threshed out at a meeting of business managers with Walter Wentz in Garden Grove last night, will send San Bernardino against Anaheim in a seven-inning "curtain-raiser," to be followed by a seven-inning nightcap between Anaheim and Santa Ana.

The San Bernardino-Anaheim game is a "replay" of a protested game already credited to San Bernardino, 4 to 3, early in the season. If Anaheim wins, the Valencia's second game with Santa Ana will be reduced to an exhibition—but it will be played for the entertainment of the fans.

If San Bernardino wins tomorrow night's first game, however, the Santa Ana-Anaheim game will decide third place, and will have an important bearing on the Shaughnessy playoffs for the four top teams.

Regardless of the outcome of the doubleheader, San Bernardino officially will open the Shaughnessy playoffs at San Bernardino Monday night against the team that finishes in fourth place. Huntington Beach, the No. 1 team, will play at home Tuesday night against the club that winds up in third place.

The four teams will participate in two four-out-of-seven game series for the 1937 championship. It was voted last night that the fifth and sixth-place clubs, Orange and Westminster, would share gate receipts for the final seven-game playoff.

Anaheim is well equipped to play the doubleheader here, what with three fine pitchers in Lyle Morse, Wilbur Stinchfield, and Manager Clay (String) McDonnell. Morse probably will go up against San Bernardino in an effort to clinch third spot, with Stinchfield slated to start against Manager "Doc" Smith's Stars.

BREA GUNS FOR THREE-GAME LEAD AT IRVINE TONIGHT

Holly Sugar Treats Players, Guests To Big Banquet at Green Cat Cafe

Virgil Kiger's Brea Lions will be in position to secure a commanding lead in the County league softball playoffs when they send Rudy Montgomery into the fourth game on the Irvine grounds at 8:15 tonight.

Brea holds a 2-1 lead as the result of 9-2 and 8-5 victories, following Irvine's 8-6 win in the opener. By winning tonight the Lions would turn the pressure on Ernie Lagier's defending champions, who will match blond Ira DeBusk against the clever Montgomery.

Holly Sugar, good enough to gain the Shaughnessy playoffs its first year, will close its 1937 season tonight when Manager F. D. Shaw takes his sugar company team to Placentia for an exhibition at 8 o'clock.

Holly Sugar company officials treated their team to a banquet at the Green Cat cafe last night. Brief speeches were made by Manager Shaw; Tom Lacy, superintendent of the Holly plant; Casey Boggess, assistant superintendent; Phil Brooks, Holly Sugar bookkeeper and official scorer; Paul Wright, sports editor of The Journal, and Phil Brooks Jr., the club's mascot and bat boy.

Players who were honored guests included Mike Kinney, Ray Cruz, Gil Lierman, Tom Lacy Jr., Frank Martinez, Henry Martinez, Merced Cruz, Manuel Salcido, Arnold Struck, Armand Hanson, Fred Howell, Lee Sifton, Glenn Yoder, John MacFarlane and Jim Cruz. A special guest was Roger Larimer, sensational young hurler of the Orange Cubs of the National Nightball league.

Twenty-Four Boxing Experts See Knockout for Bomber

NEW YORK. (AP)—Of more than 25 New York, out-of-town and foreign boxing experts polled by the Associated Press on the probable outcome of Monday night's heavyweight title bout at Yankee stadium between Champion Joe Louis and British Challenger Tommy Farr, only one picks Farr. The fight has been postponed from tonight because of rain.

He is John McAdam, of the London Sunday Dispatch, and his verdict is "Farr by decision." The experts' views—with Louis the winner unless otherwise indicated—follow:

SPORT SLANTS

By TOM (PAP) PAPROCKI

Joe Louis is heavyweight champion, all right. He won the title by stopping Braddock in eight rounds. But the man in the street is not quite ready to accept the Bomber as boss of the big boys.

There is that little matter of a 12-round knockout Joe suffered at the hands of Max Schmeling. Until Louis erases that taint from his record his claim to the title of world champion is not as strong as it might be.

Perhaps that is why there has been no stampede for tickets to the Louis-Farr fracas. On the surface it would appear the contest had all the ingredients necessary for a sell-out. A world heavyweight champion is defending his title. The international angle is there, too. That generally means a sure fire hit.

Before Louis won the diadem he was, without a doubt, the greatest drawing card since Jack Dempsey's heyday. But now that he is champion the paying public wants to see him in action against the logical contender. That happens to be Max Schmeling. Not Tommy Farr nor anyone else.

The failure of Farr to catch the eyes of critics in his workouts has not helped stimulate interest. The experts have installed Louis a 4-1 favorite to stop Farr in short order. Even the British boxing writers cannot see how their man hopes to win.

Watching the fair-skinned Farr in training one cannot help but feel there is a likelihood he will have to repeat his training camp habit of drawing back his glove before tossing a punch only once or twice before Louis drives his punches to a vital spot. Farr looks as though he would cut easily. Most fair-skinned fighters do. Chances are that the referee will not hesitate to call a halt should the Bomber muss up the Welsh fighter with a few well-placed rights and lefts.

Perhaps Farr has been holding back in training and has a surprise or two for the champion. That's hardly likely, although Farr is known to be a "cute" fighter and one whose style is not easy to fathom.

GLASS STRIKERS REJECT NEW PEACE OFFER

FULLERTON PLANT STILL
PICKETEDBoycott of Products
Ordered By Union

Striking glassworkers at the Mississippi Glass company's big factory at Fullerton continued to maintain an iron-clad picket line about the plant today after rejecting the second time offers of settlement of the strike by company officials.

Union men and officials of the National Manufacturing company failed to reach an agreement on wages at a conference and the strike had moved into the second month today.

ORDER BOYCOTT
R. M. Paxton, vice president of the company, sped here from the East in an attempt to settle the strike. The workers were offered an increase of five cents an hour but turned the offer down. It was the second time the union had rejected an offer by the company officials.

After rejecting the offer from the company, the union ordered a boycott on all products of the glass company, which operates factories throughout the nation.

STRIKERS' DEMANDS
The strike is the first major industrial strike in the county. Six employees of the company are out. They are members of the Flat Glass Workers' local union No. 20,928, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Demands of the strikers were for a 15 per cent increase in pay, time and a half for overtime and double time on Sundays, contracts for a year with the employers, a closed shop and that all foremen using tools be union members.

Tustin Sea Scouts
At Santa Barbara

Skipped by Harold Case, the Tustin Sea Scout troop reached Santa Barbara today, according to information telephoned here from the northern port.

The troop sailed from Bayshore last Sunday morning aboard L. E. Barbieri, yawl. The first port of call was Santa Barbara island, 20 miles west of Santa Cruz island, reaching that point Tuesday.

After visiting Santa Rosa island and San Miguel island, they crossed the channel to Santa Barbara harbor, where they will be at anchor for a day or two. The cruise is expected to end in Newport Harbor next Saturday.

The troop of Sea Scouts manned the Basante in the Bayshore entry in the Tournament of Lights, and the entry won first place in the 30 to 45-foot class of auxiliary yachts. The boys left before hearing that they had won a prize, and were notified by telephone today.

Mrs. William B. McConnell, 1218 Orange avenue, is in a northern hospital recovering from injuries sustained when the car in which she was riding with her husband and grandson fell into a ditch when a tire blew out, 30 miles from Fresno.

She sustained three broken ribs, cuts about the nose and eyes and body. Mr. McConnell suffered bruises about his body while Billy McConnell, the grandson, received several cuts.

The accident happened about two weeks ago 30 miles from Fresno at the turn of a grade. The McConnell car was going downhill about 15 miles an hour behind a truck when the tire blew out, hurling the car about 15 feet down to a solid rock bottom.

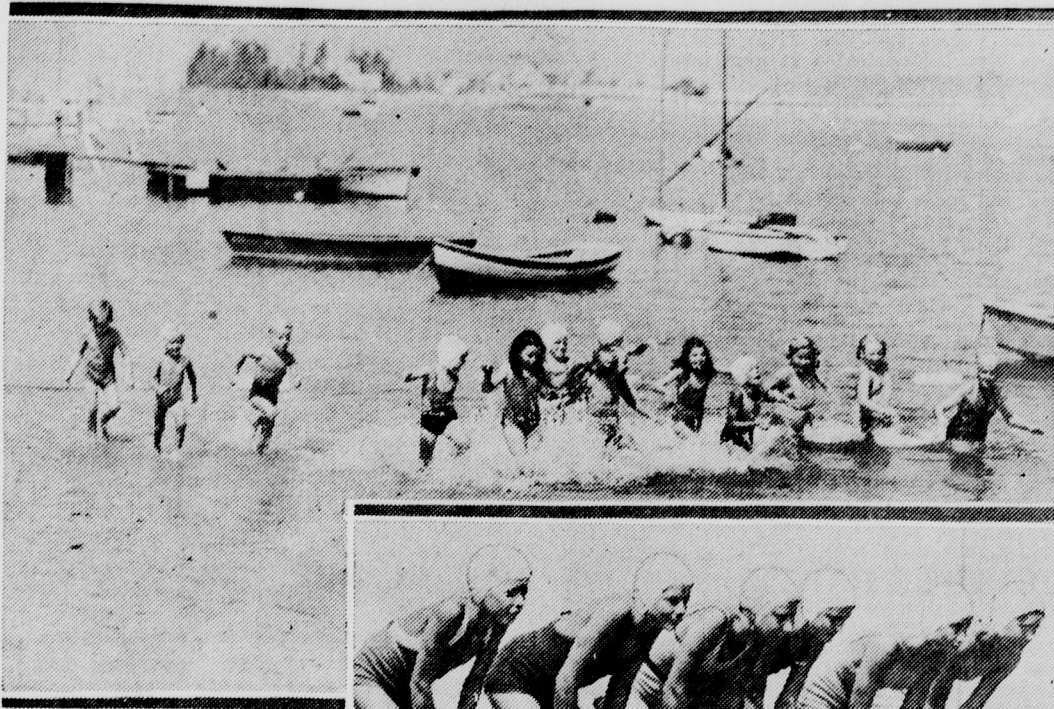

Mrs. McConnell is confined to the Sanger sanitarium at Sanger, and is expected to return home soon.

A handful of long-faced war veterans carried the remains of a brown dog mascot back to their El Toro camp last night.

Today they were to hold funeral services for Brownie, their camp mascot, who had to be killed because he was so badly injured in an accident yesterday.

Out of their $5 monthly pay—the rest must go into savings—the veterans had taken up a collection to buy gasoline to bring Brownie to Santa Ana for treatment.

But Dr. N. D. Cash told them the dog was too severely injured to save, and the veterans took the remains back to camp.

COVER CROP
PLANTING
SEASON HERERecommendations Told
By Farm Advisor

Now is the time to give consideration to the annual organic supply in the citrus grove if the grower has not already done so, according to recommendations from the farm advisor's office.

If the grower can afford to make an application of manure, bean straw or alfalfa, now is a good time, before the fall rains come, said Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg. After the material has been well incorporated with the soil, the ground can be furrowed out and seeded to a cover crop.

LONG GROWING PERIOD
"September is a very satisfactory time for the planting of cover crops, especially legumes, which require a fairly long growing period," he explained. "If non-legumes are to be planted, the seeding may be delayed until late September or into October unless earlier plantings are made to turn under before the frost period."

"If the grower expects to rely solely on cover crops for his source of organic material, then he should be treated that it will produce all the organic matter possible. Good treatment consists of maintaining sufficient nitrogen in the soil and in not allowing the cover crop to become dry."

FURROWS NEEDED
"Furrows should always be provided, even for winter cover crops, for almost without fail there is a dry period either in the fall or in the spring when a cover crop will suffer from lack of moisture. When one of these dry spells occurs, particularly with a mustard cover crop, and irrigation is impossible because of lack of furrows, the crop ceases its development and goes to seed, making a very unsatisfactory stand."

Further information regarding fertilizers or cover crops can be obtained at the farm advisor's office.

RESPECT FOR

OTHERS URGEDKiwanis Hears Address
By Banker from L. A.

"Let us hold tenaciously to what we believe is right, but for heaven's sake, have respect for the opinions of the other fellow."

This advice was the keynote of an address, "Microscopic Differences," delivered by H. V. Adams, vice president of the Security First National bank of Los Angeles, before members of the Kiwanis club yesterday in the Masonic temple.

The speaker pointed out that differences are created more by definitions, since everyone is essentially seeking the same thing. The more one studies a subject, the more difficulties arise, he said.

"Every man has always sought the truth by groping in the dark," he said. The scientist deals with materials, the theologian with the mind, and politicians with the law. These groups are principally striving to find a way to the greatest good.

"Over-beliefs also cause differences. Application of the golden rule is effective only by the voluntary choice of the individual himself. No service can be based on the golden rule unless it is given with the voluntary consent of all parties concerned."

Adams was introduced by the chairman of the day, Carl C. Cowles, Santa Ana attorney.

Real Love Is Obstructed By Adolescent Mental Condition of Romanticist

Yesterday we printed a letter from "Incurable Romanticist," a young wife and mother, who was tempted to leave her husband for the sweetheart of five years before. She decided against that impulse and now wonders if she did the right thing, if she is being fair to her husband, and if she is capable of any great love. We attach to her husband, and if she is capable of any great love. We attach to her husband, and if she is capable of any great love.

such glamor, so many romantic ideals to the things we can't quite reach. And it's only after bitter disappointment, after our hands are slapped as we reach for them, that we realize what we have now is really the best.

Is there such a thing as real love? Yes "Romanticist." See, I don't call you "Incurable" because I don't think you are. You are merely suffering from a bad case of delayed adolescence.

You haven't experienced this real love, which your husband undoubtedly feels, because of your looking-back methods and mental infidelity. And your "dream man," if he can be judged by most of his type, only knows one great love and that is for himself.

No real man is going to confess love to a woman who is wed to a good man, especially when she is the mother of children. And no real woman is going to let an ex-sultor go so far as to make that confession!

The easiest thing a love poacher can say, after an absence of five, 10 or 15 years, is "I've always loved you." Why, "Romanticist," that drive is right down his alley as the boys say.

You say you have the highest regard and admiration for your husband — you have the mental and spiritual pillars of love and some of the physical pillars of love and some of the physical pillars of love and some of the physical pillars of love.

You have this despite the fact that for five years you've been trying to tear down the real temple. In your blindness you are comparable to a jungle native who will trade a pearl of great price for a string of gaudy beads. You are wearing a real red rose, but you'd throw it away for a paper orchid.

And if I now turn the spy glass on you, don't think it isn't because I haven't sympathy, or that I want to "rub it in." But, little lady, it's only by seeing ourselves clearly that we can build a better self.

First of all, you are sure of yourself and sure of your husband. He's spoiled you, I'll wager. I'll safely say that if he was as insincere as you have been through your wedded life, and confessed to you what you did to him about some other girl, you'd raise the roof and cry all over the place!

You should not delude yourself into believing that you are making a sacrifice in giving up the old lover. You wouldn't have him even when your true blue husband gave you the opportunity. Why are you staying? Not because of duty. "Incurable Romanticist" don't let that stop them. It's because in your subconscious mind you know you have the right man and the right love.

If your method of trying to return your husband's love you are still unfair to him. Isn't it unfair that in order to get a thrill you should clothe your husband with the glamor you enveloped the other man with? How would you feel if the situation were reversed?

If you would take a fair invoice of your possessions, home, children, love and a good husband, you'd find that you own more than the average woman.

What you need to do is to tell the world, including former sweethearts, that you are happily married. If anything will steal a poacher's thunder quicker than a wife praising her husband, I don't know what it is. They usually sink silently away. On the other hand, a real man respects any woman who praises her own husband. Won't you try it?

Garden Party Enjoyed By Guests

A lovely sunny afternoon, a delicious luncheon and a charming group of guests all contributed to make St. Anne's Altar society benefit party this week a decided success, both from the standpoint of enjoyment and finances.

Mrs. Allen Mandy had graciously contributed her home and pretty garden for the affair, and when the number of reservations called for more space, her next door neighbor, Mrs. R. W. Weston, turned her garden over to join that of Mrs. Mandy.

Brightly-hued parasols cast their shade upon the more than 50 small tables that were assembled, and contract, auction and five hundred games followed lunch, at which the ladies were assisted by Tony Barrios.

An interesting note was that the day was Mrs. Mandy's birthday anniversary, and on her smart hostess frock she wore a lovely gardenia corsage sent her by her husband in honor of the event.

A number of beautiful door prizes were given away during the day, most of them contributed by prominent merchants. Winners of these included Mrs. A. L. Meric, Mrs. C. E. Hays, Mrs. Ella Kenard, Mrs. Ada K. March, Miss Katherine Wolford, Mrs. Walter Markel, Mrs. Antone Borchard and Miss H. Grossman.

Little Marilee Hostettler, frocked in crisp blue organdy, assisted Mrs. Mandy in giving out these and the high score prizes, which were dainty linens, many of them brought from South America this spring by Mrs. Frank Seidel.

Winners at five hundred were Mrs. Paul Dominguez, Mrs. C. Schaefer, president of the Altar society, Mrs. Anne Flanagan and Miss Estelle Schlesinger, and at contract, Mrs. Jo Ashland, Mrs. E. B. Collier, and Mrs. Bob Fernandez.

Assisting Mrs. Mandy in her arrangements were Mrs. Frank Schaefer, president of the Altar society, Mrs. Anne Flanagan and Miss Estelle Schlesinger, and at contract, Mrs. Jo Ashland, Mrs. E. B. Collier, and Mrs. Bob Fernandez.

Apply Makeup Sparingly

By JACQUELINE HUNT

Does your lipstick come off on your napkins and teacups—or do you know how to apply it so it stays there for two hours or more? Does your nose shine half an hour after you have applied your powder, or do you still look presentable when you pause in your morning's work for lunch?

Do your eyebrows jump out at you when you look in the mirror or do they form an unobtrusive frame for your other features?

It is a good idea to check up on your cosmetics and your make-up habits occasionally. The famous Hollywood expert, who is responsible for some of the loveliest faces you see on the screen, says that most women wear too much make-up and that the rest of them do not know how to apply it.

Rouge should go on the cheek area where the natural bright color shows after you have been exercising vigorously. It should match the natural blood tones, and should be blended so sparingly that you have to look twice to see if it is really there, the color a tiny bit deeper at the center of the rouged area and fading away toward the edges.

Lipstick comes off in short order because women use too much of it, instead of giving the color a chance to set and then blotting away the excess. Do not apply a heavy smear of it because you hope it will last an entire afternoon or evening, but plan to renew your lip makeup at least once every three hours. This way your lips will have a soft, uniform coloring at all times.

The same with powder—many of you use too much. It should be applied liberally to start with so your skin will hold what it needs. Wait a minute and remove the excess with a complexion brush. If you have used one of the tinted, creamy powder bases that resembles the theatrical greasepaint, you can freshen your make-up after

JOLLY APRON PAIR SIMPLE TO STITCH SAYS MARIAN MARTIN

Who'd ever guess that this eye-catching pair of aprons can be made so easily and quickly at home! Isn't it thrilling to know that you can smartly and inexpensively protect all your pretty frocks with this two-piece apron? Carry a message from the national president, Dr. Edmund P. Fowler, of New York City, in the August number. Dr. Fowler discusses, "Swimming and the Ears" with much feeling and a personal interest. His advice is so good that we may all be benefitted by reading and following it.

Here it is: "Healthy ears need not be above water because their outer canals are lined by skin, and water in moderation will not injure skin. It will, however, swell up any fibrous or waxy material in the external ear canals and produce pressure and temporary deafness. It may infect the middle ear if there is a hole in the eardrum."

A tightly fitting cotton ear plug saturated with vaseline will prevent water from entering the ear, but such a plug will also prevent much sound from entering the ear. Therefore, do not use it if you are in a place where you need all your hearing to protect you from harm.

"The reason that swimming may cause harm even to the healthy ear is that infectious material which gets into the back of the nose near the opening of the Eustachian tube may be sucked in whenever the middle ear becomes deflated, following forcible snuffing or swallowing with the nose closed in any way. The middle ear then acts like a rubber ball squeezed in a vacuum, when the vacuum is released, anything near the tube opening will be sucked up towards the ear."

"This is the way in which infectious material in your nose, or from the noses of others in the sea, lake or swimming pool may be drawn into the ear. All noses contain bacteria and there are many diseased noses which harbor them in large numbers, so that those who do the snuffing and nose blowing in the water are apt to be the ones who suffer most."

"Anyone with an infection of the ears or nose or of any part of the body is a potential source of danger to self and to others. All such should be prohibited from bathing near other people. Swimming pools are a little better than septic tanks because of the chlorine which is used to keep the water pure to prohibit bacteria by those with nose, throat, ear, and other infections."

For another of their weekly parties which have enlivened the summer season, members of the Santa Ana Woman's club met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. F. A. Martin in her home at 414 South Parton street.

A luncheon was served to the group at noon, followed by a bridge session after which Mrs. L. G. Holman was awarded a prize for high score.

Members present were Mrs. Leonard Music, Mrs. L. G. Holman, Mrs. Earl Lepper, Mrs. Land Ewbank, Mrs. C. W. Clark, Mrs. L. E. Tarbox, Mrs. Lowell Willy, Mrs. Hal Noel and Miss Linda Crawford.

Home Service Correct Pronunciation Adds to Charm

Be More Than a Bathing Beauty Bill is proud to take Nancy anywhere. She's as good to talk to as she is to look at.

Every word perfect, her happy voice rings out over the swimming pool. "What an EKSkwizit day! Bill, you dive from tremendous heights!"

Lucky girl, Bill thinks, to have no bad pronunciation habits like EKSkwizit, tremenJUS, highTH. But Nancy knows it's a "luck." A few minutes' faithful practice every day taught her to pronounce even difficult words easily, correctly.

She realizes that friends as well as strangers judge her by her speech, that incorrect pronunciation may cause social or business failure.

It's easy to be careless—so, check up! How do you say these ordinary words: amateur, mayonnaise, route, sandwiches? The wrong way: AMacher, MYnaize, ROWT, sanWHICHEZ? Or the right way: AMATERR or AMatur, mayonAZE, ROOT, SAND-witchez.

Our 32-page booklet will help you avoid embarrassing blunders. In practical, entertaining fashion it tells how to use and pronounce 450 commonly mispronounced words.

Send 10c for your copy of Guide to Correct Pronunciation to The Santa Ana Journal Home Service, 117 East Fifth Street, Santa Ana, Calif. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and name of booklet.

Swimming May Cause Ear Trouble

There are many more methods of lesser importance. Some seeds are expelled with great force by the sudden bursting of the pod. It is noted that some seeds make a pistol-like report when the pod is broken.

Some plants send out long runners that take root at the tips. An example of this is the strawberry. Still other plants send out long canes that reach to the ground and take root. This method is not directly seed distribution, but does concern plant movement.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

— By — ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD.—Wendy Barrie was between pictures the day I called, and she hadn't much to do. There were three gentlemen from radio going over some songs with her for an impending airing, and the newspaper boy wanted to collect, and I came early because all the clocks in town were fast.

Her agent called and said she was set to go on the air in Shake-speare after her bout with Bill Fields and Charlie McCarthy and she'd better brush up on "As You Like It." The telephone rang a couple more times and she promised to call back, and then her hairdresser came in—this was while we were lunching—and waited to give the Barrie bob its daily brushing of one hour.

SHED RATHER STAY HOME "I hate to go out," said slim Wendy Barrie, who had to go out twice that evening, calling off her own dinner party for the occasion. Her first date was to be with Douglas Montgomery. They were to do some night-climbing publicity pictures. Then Wayne Morris would call and they'd go to a film welfare benefit, actually go to this time.

"But I don't want to go out," wailed bronze-haired, green-eyed Wendy. I want to stay home and crawl in bed and read a book. I hate going out. Everything I do, I do so intensely I'm worn out by 10 o'clock. I don't want to be seen places. I get frightened and want to crawl under tables because I feel I look so terrible. . . .

WANTS BETTER ROLE In the morning she would call up the radio man to make an appointment for a rehearsal with Don Ameche, that depending on what time Ameche would be free from his movie work. She would have voice and dancing lessons, and then she would try once more to get out of her next picture assignment because she liked nothing about it, and she thought she deserved better after the notices she got on "Dead End."

She thinks she probably owes her performance in that film to William Wyler, although during the making she burned and boiled at the director. He would tell her how bad an actress she was, and she'd feel like crying, but take it out in acting—which was, she admits, probably what Wyler intended her to do.

Wendy Barrie lives alone and wishes her mother and sister could be with her. She misses having a family. But her sister, ill in the East, needs Mother more, she says. Wendy has a devoted negro couple who take care of her, try to make her eat fattening foods, and go to all her previews to fill preview cards with "raves" for Wendy Barrie.

GARDEN SECRETS By WILLIS CADWALLADER Of Blandin Nurseries

"He must go-go-go away from here. On the other side of the world he's overdue." —Kipling.

Plants are firmly rooted to one spot, where they are unable to move about, and yet they are able to scatter seed for many miles. There are a number of methods of seed dissemination, a few being quite important. The most important method is the distribution by animals.

In some cases the seed covering has hooks or pins by which method it sticks to some animal's fur. These burrs will sooner or later be dislodged and a seed will grow. Other seeds have a sticky coating that causes them to adhere to the beak, feathers, or feet of birds. Mistletoe is a good example of this.

There is another method of distribution by animals and that is the most important method of all. The seed has a hard indigestible covering, surrounded by a nourishing and appetizing pulp. The fruit is eaten, the seed is passed in the seed, and the seed is planted in widely diversified places. Ants are also active in seed distribution.

Winds are the next important means of seed locomotion. The winged fruit of the maple, linden, pine, catalpa, etc., are wafted away on the wind for great distances. Other seeds such as cotton and clematis have developed long hairs that are caught by the wind. In some cases, those seeds depending on the wind for distribution on the same principle as that described by W. F. Ganong, "That of a great spread of surface accompanied by very light weight," have a "parachute plume" to carry a moderately heavy seed. This allows the wind to get underneath the plume and carry the seed for great distances.

There are many more methods of lesser importance. Some seeds are expelled with great force by the sudden bursting of the pod. It is noted that some seeds make a pistol-like report when the pod is broken.

Some plants send out long runners that take root at the tips. An example of this is the strawberry. Still other plants send out long canes that reach to the ground and take root. This method is not directly seed distribution, but does concern plant movement.

INSPIRED BY A HEADACHE

On a visit in Washington, D. C., during the fiery Civil War days of 1861, Julia Ward Howe, the poetess, was escorted through the Union encampment. Here she saw the "watch-fires" of a hundred circling camps and heard the Yankee soldiers singing their favorite marching song, "John Brown's Body." No doubt it was the somewhat gruesome wording of the line "John Brown's body lies a mould'ring in the grave..." that set her thoughts along the lines of writing her own words for the catchy tune.

Retiring early to her room at the old Willard hotel, she awakened at midnight with a splitting headache and the "John Brown's Body" tune ponding through her brain. Arising, she took a pencil stub and began writing.

"Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming..."

In February of the following year as the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" her poem appeared in the pages of the "Atlantic Monthly."

SCHOOLBOY HOWLERS

"An artery is a place where paintings are kept."

"Chink is an expression signifying Chinese money."

"Climate lasts all the time, and weather only a few days."

"Hypothesis is what you require to develop snapshots."

"The laity is a collective name for a lot of hens."--Calgary Herald.

WHAT'S NEEDED

"He said he would lay the earth at my feet," said the sentimental girl.

"Yes," answered Miss Gadabout. "It sounds good, but it is not practical. You already have the earth at your feet. What you want is a three or four-story house over your head."--Life, Australia.

MUCH EASIER

"I've been thinking, my son, of retiring next year and leaving you to manage the business."

"There's no hurry, is there, dad? You go ahead and work a few more years and we can both retire together."--Atlanta Two Bells.

Two Vital Questions

Have the patient Chinese people, goaded into blind and revengeful fury, at last risen in their might to strike with full force at their Japanese oppressors? It is too early to tell, but the day by day accounts of fighting which come from Shanghai indicate this may be the case.

There is a great deal about the whole situation which, from this distance, we cannot comprehend. For example, it is most difficult to understand why the Japanese forces started any warfare at this time on the Whangpoo. Their armies were proceeding with little opposition to conquer the northern provinces of Hopeh and Chahar. Neither the Nanking government nor other powers were making more than mild gestures of interference or opposition.

But by suddenly making a tremendous issue of a minor episode in Shanghai, Japan now has placed herself face to face with Chiang Kai-shek's well trained regular soldiers and subjected herself to strafing by the Chinese general's aviators. The incidental and inevitable killing of foreigners and the destruction of foreign property naturally antagonizes other countries, too.

As the scale and the tempo of the warfare increase it is going to call for all the resources that China can muster. But it is going to call also for heavier and heavier reinforcements and expenditures by a Japan that already is economically tottering.

Will Chiang Kai-shek gamble on a great blow of retaliation?

Can the Japanese militarists force an already partially rebellious populace at home to pay the price to meet his challenge?

These are two great questions which must be read between the lines of the daily news coming out of the Orient. The answers, when made, will constitute history of the highest importance.

The usually complete and informative Associated Press disappoints us in its story about the supposedly impending marriage of one of the Prince Mdwanis to Honey Something-or-other. It doesn't report the really pertinent fact, how much money is the gal worth?

How Tall Is Your Corn?

For the honor of Orange county, some of the farmers in the lower valley who grow tall corn had better hustle into The Journal office with detailed reports of their current crop.

For our mail today brings a note from a Santa Ana just returned from a vacation trip back to his old Missouri home. This letter records the splendid stand of squirrel corn, which—so he says—he saw in Horseshoe county, in the old home state. He writes:

"In the loop of Horseshoe creek is some overflow land. That patch of bottom land is rich as cream. It is covered with a dense forest of oak trees 80 feet high. Standing on a ridge, you can look down on the top of this forest, smooth and even as a meadow. And rising out of the top of this forest, along about this time of year, are large golden corn tassels, as big as Christmas trees.

"Squirrels poaching corn from neighboring fields drop grains of it on this wonderfully fertile forest floor. These grains grow and don't stop till the stalks push their heads up above the trees.

"This squirrel corn averages about two and a half bushels of shelled corn to the ear.

"The corncocks are used as baglocks in the fireplace."

Now, of course, it must be admitted that sounds like excellent corn for a Missouri farm to produce. It might even get by passably well in Iowa or Illinois, but it would be commonplace, indeed, in our really rich California farming sections. Just to keep the record straight, will one of the local growers kindly send in some data concerning full-grown No. 1 Orange county corn? Just so the Santa Ana in question can write back to Horseshoe county and tell 'em.

A careful driver, according to the Odessa, Mo., Democrat, approached a railroad crossing. He stopped, looked and listened. All he heard was the car behind him crashing into his gasoline tank.

Four Go to Jail

Thomas Mann, famous writer, has brought great embarrassment to the trustees of the San Francisco opera house who, in a midsummer moment, turned down an application for a lecture engagement on the ground that they had never heard of him.

A dispatch today from Berlin indicates that, on the contrary, the authorities there have heard Mann. Herr Hitler, of course, some time ago expatriated him. Now four Jews in the German capital have been sentenced to jail terms ranging from five to nine months each for merely handing around among their friends a copy of a newspaper item concerning Mann.

The clipping seems innocent enough, merely recording that the man of letters had been conferred honorary degrees both by the University of Bonn and Cambridge university. Evidently nothing favorable, whether it be true or not, must be circulated in Hitlerland about those under Hitler's displeasure.

It would seem, however, that the now red faced S. F. board members ought to be given some sort of a decoration by the Fuehrer in recognition of their ignorance.

Many a senator's wife won't care about the low-down on legislation, but her husband had better be able to tell her every detail of the clothes worn by Dixie Graves.

FAIR Enough

By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK.—Never let it be said that your correspondent put in a good word for old Doc Copeland, because the doc is a Tammany senator, but in the current scuffle for the job of mayor of New York an attempt is being made to label him the Nazi candidate, and that is dirty pool. Cheap as he has been in some of his publicity gags, and he once made ballyhoo for himself by conducting a reducing class for a group of fat women at the old Madison Square Garden, he has never done anything to justify the charge that he has anything in common with Adolf Hitler.

The old doc is pure American in all aspects, his record on dictatorship is a lot better, if it comes to a showdown, than that of Jerry Mahoney, who professes to string along with Roosevelt in everything the President proposes, including some very dictatorial measures, and it wasn't his fault that the New York outpost of the Nazi government decided to smear him with its indorsement a little while ago.

As far as sound conservatism is concerned, he is a staid man, not either Mahoney or Fiorella La Guardia and, before this campaign is over, a lot of old-line reactionary Republicans will find themselves voting for a Tammany man, to wit—the doc, because he is the only one in the field who represents what they want. Of course, he also represents Tammany, but the conservatives will be in the predicament of the miner who played the only wheel in town, even though it did have a gimmick on it.

A FOUL BLOW

The Nazi indorsement was a foul blow to the doc, and typical of the dumb, square-headedness which only a few months ago in the Nazi papers threatened to take an unpleasant interest in our internal affairs, and called us a nation who wear our hats in the house, put our feet on the table and spit chewing gum at the walls.

The local Nazis couldn't go for La Guardia, because he said Hitler belonged in a chamber of horrors, and they were off Mahoney, because he tried to prevent the participation of the American team in the Nazi olympics.

But Copeland just happened not to have said anything, so they indorsed him, which was equivalent to patting him on the head with an ax, because for every vote they can give him they will drive six votes away. This, no doubt, is the promised manifestation of the unpleasant interest in our internal affairs.

However, in the interest of a fair deal, even for a Tammany politician, it is time to point out that Hitler isn't running in this campaign, and is just as phony an issue as King George V was in the campaign of Big Bill Thompson in Chicago.

The local Nazi organization includes only a faction of local Americans of German origin or descent, and there are many such who detest Hitler and his fellow murderers as heartily as any Jew, Catholic or Mason, and recent attempts to deliver them to any candidate in Hitler's name.

WALKER AGAIN
Mahoney has plenty to explain in the appointment of Jimmy Walker to an official job in order to qualify him for a pension which will cost the town at least $120,000 if he lives 10 years, because Jimmy is playing on Jerry's team, and the appointment came from Washington, where we heard some recent complaint about the diversion of money from the relief of the ill-kempt third of the population. He probably will avoid that subject, however, just as Mr. Walker, in his plaintive reply to Sam Seabury's resume of the Walker case, neglected to refute a reference to one of his trips abroad. Mr. Seabury said the trip was financed "by a letter of credit paid for by the agent of the Equitable Coach Co." interesting, indeed, if true.

In his first speech of the campaign for mayor of an American city, Mr. Mahoney spoke in Yiddish, and if it isn't asking too much, perhaps he will explain why it isn't possible to reach the understanding of an audience claiming the right to vote in an American election in the accepted language of the country. If Mr. Mahoney can't understand the language well enough to comprehend the simple campaign for leadership of an old-style politician, how come they are voting here?

This is a pretty low form of political kidding, because Jerry will do the Jews no good to segregate them from the rest of the people and, even if he could, will be unable to give them any benefits comparable to the prejudice which he will arouse by seeking high office by orations in a foreign tongue.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON.—Big Jim Farley may croon sweetly his now famous bedtime ballad, "Peace, Boys, There Will Be No Reprisals," and Vice President Jack Garner may whisper piteously to all who will listen to him, "There is no quarrel between the President and myself." But don't let anyone kid you that it isn't war to the limit between the white house and the anti-New Deal Democrats.

The conflict is as real, fierce and momentous as the undeclared war between China and Japan.

The die was cast when the southern Democrats on the house rules committee, led by Gene Cox of Georgia and Martin Dies of Texas, flouted the President and blocked enactment of the wage-hour bill. This was the second most important measure on his legislative program. With the court bill settled, the President was particularly anxious to salvage this bill to restore prestige.

When the southern die-hards harpooned it, he saw red. Until then Roosevelt, while angry over the loss of his court plan, was not up in arms. Some of his hot-blooded zealots wanted him to take to the barricades. But the President was chary. Then the wage-hour bill was sabotaged, and he needed no further urging to do battle.

He struck back hard and at once—with the appointment of Hugo Black, ardent southern New Dealer, to the supreme court.

Next he used a southern forum, at the Virginia Dairies celebration in North Carolina, to blast the Liberty League, National Manufacturers association, U. S. Chamber of Commerce, and some "well-known newspaper proprietors." Then to remove all doubt that he was on the war path, Senator Joe Guffey of Pennsylvania, administration stalwart, was sent to the microphone to tongue-lash Senators Wheeler, Burke and O'Mahoney and Chief Justice Hughes, the master-minds of the successful fight against the court bill.

FLANK ATTACK

Only a few insiders know of still another hostile demonstration against the anti-New Dealers. This fiery salvo was aimed at Chief Justice Hughes. It appeared as a series of articles in the liberal weekly The New Republic. Written by Irvin Brant, brilliant editorial writer of The St. Louis Star-Times, they were an amazingly penetrating analysis of Hughes' record as chief justice.

The burden of the articles was that Hughes writes the decisions of the court when the majority is on the liberal side, and assigns other justices to write the decisions when the majority is conservative. In substantiating his thesis, Brant cited intimate details of the private proceedings of the court. These disclosures painted Mr. Hughes in a very unfavorable light.

On the surface, the connection between this attack and the administration may seem remote. But the tie-up, while indirect, is definitely a part of the white house's undeclared war.

The information was of such a nature that it could have come only from a member of the court, and from one who is friendly to the administration.

Brant's articles will shortly be printed in a pamphlet and distributed widely throughout the country as a New Deal campaign document. The same will be done with the President's North Carolina speech and Guffey's thundering roll of war drums.

JUST THE BEGINNING

These fusillades are only the beginning. The President is firmly convinced that it is now either his head or that of the revolting Democrats. He considers their wrecking of his legislative program a direct challenge to his continued leadership and a move to seize control of the party.

Further, Senator Burt Wheeler is considered the ambitious aspirant for the throne. That is why Guffey turned his biggest guns on the Montana and his two side-kicks, Senators O'Mahoney of Wyoming and Burke of Nebraska. Administrationites are convinced that Wheeler plans to run for the presidency in 1940 as a "safe and sane" Democrat.

Other blasts are in the works. Some of the house dragons are in for a naming of names and blistering reading of the record. In the coming months the boys are going to feel the lash of the white house's anger.

A boyhood friend of the President once remarked, "Don't be fooled by Frank's smile. He can hate like hell."

The battle of 1940 is on. Note—In Guffey's original draft of his speech Senator Tom Connally also came in for a justly castigation. However, following the long-haired Texan's support of the appointment of Senator Black, Guffey eliminated the attack on Connally.

BIG SHOT

Following the announcement that the President had appointed "tax" Commissioner Jusin Miller to a vacancy on the federal circuit bench, a friend asked Senator Bob Reynolds how his fellow North Carolinian happened to get the prize job.

"I had understood," the friend said, "that the choice lay between Senator Pat Harrison's candidate, Commissioner Sykes of the communications commission, and Vincent Miles, who failed to get appointed to the social security board."

"Judge Miller got the appointment," Reynolds replied, "because I indorsed him."

"Anybody else indorse him?"

"It was the only one."

"Well, how come you indorsed him?"

"Because," beamed Reynolds, "he is a very dear friend of the President."

Note—The man really responsible for Miller's reappointment was Assistant Attorney General Joe Keenan. The two men are old and close friends. Keenan brought Miller to Washington in the early days of the administration to backstop J. Crawford Biggs, then solicitor general. Miller's rise in the New Deal has been rapid. From the justice department he went to the tax appeals board, over the head of the North Carolina congressional delegation, which was back in another choice, and now he goes on the circuit bench, next in rank to the supreme court. (Copyright, 1937.)

The Mailbag

Public opinion, or what somebody in office imagines to be public opinion, is as ruleless as public opinion is active, the politicians and people sit up and take notice. There is a definite need for outspoken talking and thinking on public matters. Honest, intelligent, fair discussion of problems is immensely useful. So that every citizen may have his say and contribute to the formation of public opinion, The Journal invites letters to The Mailbag.

'ONE NINTH PACKED'

To the Editor:—I read in a Portland, Ore., paper an interview given by ex-President Hoover, who is in the north on a fishing trip.

Commenting on the appointment of Justice Black, he remarked that the supreme court is now "one-ninth packed?"

What is the meaning of this statement?

Mr. Hoover appointed Justices Hughes, Roberts and Cardozo to the same bench. Did he thus "pack" one-third of the court?

If not, what is there about President Roosevelt's naming of a justice which is so greatly different from the Hoover naming of one?

NEW DEALER.

BARKING DOGS

To the Editor:—We are living in a very pretty district. The only thing wrong is that the district is infested with dogs. When night comes and folks are in a peaceful slumber, the dogs start barking and keep it up until early in the morning. The owners do not seem to mind. The dog that one neighbor of ours owns is really a nuisance. He is a prize barker, barks at everything he sees and hears. A sure can't get much sleep.

This has been going on now from night to night since we have been living in our new home—over two months. We own our home and do not want to sell it on account of inconsiderate neighbors. How can a considerate neighbor be protected from an inconsiderate one who keeps a howling dog? Something will have to be done. Either fine the owners who let their dogs run loose or make them keep them in the yard.

The city council or Humane society should take some action.

IT'S ODD

But It's Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKELEE
AP Science Editor

BOSTON, (AP)—George B. Welch of Northeastern University here says in Nature that the normal human eye can see 940,000 different colors.

To believe this it is necessary to look at a Tichener-Ebbinghaus double pyramid, and those gifted persons who can do so will realize that in sunsets they "ain't seen nothing."

The pyramid is a mathematical method of plotting the total number of colors possible to see. When a scientist gets right down to the facts the eye sees three things in color.

First is brilliance, and here are 660 different degrees of brilliance. Mr. Welch says, which the eye can see. Second is the hue, and there are 156 of those. Third is saturation, the quality which makes one color stand out more vividly than the other. There are 220 degrees of saturation.

The combination of all these adds to 940,000 colors.

SPOILS SYSTEM IS THROUGH

(Ventura County Star)

President Roosevelt's action in nominating Emilio C. Ortega to be Ventura's postmaster apparently sounds the death knell of this phase of our political spoils system.

Fifteen aspirants for the job took civil service tests. Ortega, a Republican and acting postmaster, finished first. W. W. Bernhardt, another Republican and former postmaster, finished second. Obviously their experience in the job helped them tremendously, but we don't believe any of the other aspirants can justify such "unfair." Ortega and Bernhardt won their high ranking on merit and ability. They demonstrated their knowledge and understanding of the peculiar business ability needed for the job.

And now our Democratic President has named a Republican to the job, despite the endorsement of A. L. Rains, Democrat, by the county central Democratic committee. That's a far cry from the days when the county central committees or the senator or the representative of the district paid political debts by giving "deserving" party members in the job with each change of administration.

Ortega proved to the satisfaction of the examiners that he knew more about the job than any of the other candidates. Nothing could be more simple and honest than that sort of a hiring system. The day of political plum postmasterships is over.

NEW YORK.—With the legitimate theater having to fight every inch of the way for existence, a tapscap has developed between the producers and critics that may end in open revolt. The producers say they have a legal right to bar destructive critics, and may do it. Alexander Woolcott and Percy Hammond were excluded legally for what producers said was constant fault-finding. Even Brock Pemberton, who used to be a dramatic editor, is outspoken in his belief that some of the critics have gone too far—and should be barred if the producers feel like barring them.

Perhaps the greatest offender from the showman's standpoint is George Jean Nathan, who seldom turns in a favorable report. It is the plaint of many producers that many shows are knocked in the head at premieres before they have a chance to jell.

However, the critics are having their side and are standing pat. They are agreed that any censorship over their critiques will not only be opposed by newspaper editors but will end the usefulness of reviewing. There may be some interesting showdowns the coming season.
